the more they've tried to squash him, the more popular he's become. so healthcare professionals in training may attend "carefully selected educational conferences" if the
"there is a tension here between imposing capital requirements which for some insurers could be too punitive